“If you're a young person, think about how you should train and what sort of a career path you might follow to help make the necessary changes. We need fresh minds and new, adventurous but well-informed voices. Could there be any better use for a life? Great changes are driven by individual effort. When you reach the age your grandparents are now, make sure that you can say: "I tried: my life meant something, I made a difference!"
